

I am writing because I listen to K-LOVE on the radio in my area (89.9 and 91.9 FM). I understand the FCC for some reason is wanting to possibly take KLOVE off the air by giving priority to Low Power FM (LPFM) stations.

Please reconsider this policy. My family and I listen to K-LOVE nearly exclusively in the car and at home. We find K-LOVE stations when we travel across the country. This station is important to my family and our community because it is one of the few radio stations that is dedicated to playing popular Christian music all the time with no commercials. I enjoy letting my family listen to this station because I don't have to worry about the station saying something or playing a song that is inappropriate for my children to hear. K-LOVE supports the things that I believe in - faith in God, wholesome values, being a positive influence on my family and the people around me. Many, many people I know love this station, listen to it daily and support them financially. This station is well supported in my area and it would be unjust to give priority to a LPFM station whose programming may or may not have the same positive programming. There is great value in this service and programming that K-LOVE provides - even if it does not originate from my community and it uses a translator service to bring it to me.

Again, please reconsider this localism campaign. K-LOVE should not be forced off the air in any area when hundreds of thousands of people across the country listen, support and enjoy the programming ...to give priority to some unknown LPFM station.
